Letter on true friendship Tips

A tip and more tips when writing a letter on true friendship

Since you will be writing straight from your heart, it will not be hard to write down this letter. Already you know it should be full of all the touching moments you have helped each other as friends, through those tough times and also easy times. But when writing, there are a few things you need to keep in mind, these include the following.

- Polite – In a friendship letter it is important for you to be polite, and also make sure to reassure the other person that it is a friendship letter you are writing. You can do this by asking them how they have been or maybe wishing them well.
- Brief – people do not like long boring stories written down in letters, go straight to the point, in this case appreciate your friendship without long stories in the middle.
- Emotional – it will not kill you a bit to get emotional while writing, and also it is supposed to be your best friend so it is common.

With all this in mind, do not forget to get to keep the grammar perfect and also keep in mind the punctuations of the letter.

Subject: True friendship

Dear Bree,

How many years has it been together as friends? I can even count, there to many. You have always been by my side. Carried me along the hardest times and shown how trustworthy of a friend you are. I write to you to thank you for coming into my life, since the first time we met in nursery school.

We have grown to be closer than family and shared all out moments and secrets. I hope our bond never comes to an end. You are more than a friend to me. I will always cherish this friendship and appreciate it.

Your Caring friend,

Winnie
