Dear mom,

I am genuinely feeling sorry for my behavior yesterday with you. When you were trying to tell me the importance of time, I shouted at you saying that I know what I am doing. It was mean on my part and I should not have behaved in this manner. I know you never like telling lies and indiscipline. I am ashamed of my rude behavior with you. But I beg you to understand my feelings now. I am repenting for what I have done and seek forgiveness from you. I know you are generous at heart and will definitely accept my apology to you.

I realize that I should improve my behavior and attitude. It may take time but I will show improvement in my overall behavior.

I once again apologize for my rude behavior and request you to forgive me. I promise that I shall not repeat the incident. Hope our relationship will get stronger as time passes.

Yours lovingly,

Rita

Dear mom,

I am writing this letter to accept my rude behavior with you yesterday. I know that I have hurt your feelings and caused stressful moments. I thought that writing to you will relieve my guilt and it is the best way to seek forgiveness from you.

You were explaining the importance of discipline when I lost my temper and shouted at you saying that I know what to do. You were offended and left my room in despair. I immediately realized my mistake but did not have the courage to come and face you. In this letter I request you to excuse me and give me a chance to improve my behavior. I promise that I shall not repeat this incident.

Hoping to hear from you,

Yours lovingly,

Sheela
